LEGAL ETHICS OPINION 310

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST.

In an action filed by an owners council of a condominium purporting to represent all of the owners of each unit, it is not improper for a law firm to represent a fourth-party defendant in such action when the firm has previously represented several unit owners and continues to represent them in ongoing matters, so long as the firm has not been consulted by any of the unit owners concerning this action and renders full disclosure to these parties and they consent. [See II: DR:5-105(C).]
