

Katherine H. Nace
Ninth Circuit

I am a family law practitioner and a former criminal defense attorney who seeks to meaningfully contribute to my local and statewide legal community. My desire to become an active member of the Virginia State Bar Council for the 9th Judicial District springs from a deep need to help our legal community grow and thrive. Through the Council, I aspire to partner with our legal colleagues to facilitate improvements and access to our judicial system and to regulate our prominent profession.

I am a graduate of Regent University School of Law. I have practiced with Holcomb Law, P.C. in Yorktown for my entire career, and I plan to stay in my locality for the duration of my legal practice. I am grateful for the opportunity to be considered for election to the Virginia State Bar Council for the 9th Judicial District.

Susan Bradford Tarley
Ninth Circuit

I am a principal in Tarley Robinson, PLC in Williamsburg and have practiced law for 32 years. My practice is focused on commercial and residential real estate, common interest communities, and small businesses. Throughout my career I have been involved in my community, bar associations, and my practice area, holding leadership positions in non-profit entities including Avalon Center, the Williamsburg Bar Association, the Greater Peninsula Women's Bar Association, and the Central Virginia Chapter for Community Association Institute.

I was a substitute judge for the Ninth Judicial Circuit for 18 years. I currently serve as chair of the Clients' Protection Fund Board and co-chair of the Common Interest Community subcommittee of the Real Property Section. I was admitted to the College of Community Association Lawyers, as an attorney who has distinguished herself through contributions to the practice of community association law. I would welcome the opportunity to serve on Bar Council.
